

GOOD THINGS PLENTIFUL FOR 1910 SHOW

Grounds Are Secured for Exhibition, Camp and Drill Purposes

JAPANESE TO SHOW SOME NEW PRODUCTS

Tea Garden and Daylight Fireworks May be Added to 1910 Carnival

Plans for the 1910 Orange County Carnival of Products are gradually assuming definite shape, and as time goes by the indications point clearly to a celebration this year that will be better and more representative of the county than ever before.

The executive committee of the carnival has secured the grounds east of Main street between Second and Third streets for use again this year. On these grounds the big exhibition tent will be erected.

The Odd Fellows, whose grand encampment occurs during the carnival, have secured space between Garfield and Lacy and Fourth and Sixth streets for camp grounds. Drill grounds have been secured on the south side of Third street near Lacy street.

At a meeting of the executive committee last night, representatives of the Foultry Association were present. The association will hold a show in connection with the carnival. Arrangements are to be made for better coops than have hitherto been used.

Frank Nishamura, representing the Japanese of the lowlands, stated that the Japanese were willing to put in a booth. This booth will be especially interesting, for the reason that the Japanese will have exhibits showing experiments being made by them in raising products not raised here in commercial quantities. Among these products will be ginger and peppermint. It was suggested that a Japanese tea garden be established as a part of the carnival shows. This idea met with distinct approval, and doubtless will be carried to a conclusion. It will be a new feature.

Negotiations are being made with the Japanese for displaying daylight fireworks. It seems more than likely that these negotiations will end successfully.

The advertising committee reported that steps are being taken to get out a small poster for distribution this year.

The financial committee is taking up the work of securing subscriptions. The carnival days are Oct. 6, 7 and 8. The whole week will be set aside for the grand encampment and carnival.

Says Country is Tired of Giving Money for Railroad People to Have Gay Times

CHICAGO, June 4.—Declaring the railroads have planned to raise freight rates, increase dividends and issue watered stock on their enlarged earnings, and that George W. Perkins, of the J. P. Morgan Company, would lose a fat commission if the proposed issue of watered stock was stopped, Secretary John M. Glenn of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, issued a warlike statement today.

Glenn said he would be "willing to remain silent if President Ripley of the Santa Fe will quit opposing the movement for the reformation of Federal rate regulation."

"People are tired of paying big railroad rates to give the families of millionaires money to build chateaus in France and maintain expensive divorce suits in Europe. Ripley thinks the country is going to the dogs because the railroads' scheme is stopped and stocks have slumped."

LOS ANGELES UNIONS TO GIVE FINANCIAL AID

Shipbuilding Plant at Long Beach Said to be Menaced With Dynamiting

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—According to George Gurney of San Francisco, who is directing the metal workers' strike here, all the building trades in Los Angeles will strike to help the metal workers win, if necessary. He claims that all the unions are ready to make a concerted effort to fix the status of union labor. The unions are today offering unlimited financial aid. The strikers still assert that eighteen hundred men are out. It is declared that two more machine works will be compelled to close tonight. The strikers are apparently confident of winning their fight.

LONG BEACH, June 4.—In response to a call from the Craig shipbuilding works, Chief of Police Mayer sent a detail of police to the quarters of the Japanese employees of the company to investigate an alleged plot to dynamite the buildings. They found no evidence of an attempt to use explosives, although President Craig of the company declared that positive proof had come to him that the strikers were planning violence among the Japs. The strike leaders are angry and indignant and declare they have no intention to resort to such means. They say 135 metal workers are out and 160 are still on duty. The company claims but forty-one are out. The strikers will meet tonight to perfect a new union.

Since that time it has been continuously before the senate, covering a period of twelve weeks. The original Hepburn law of which this is amendatory, was reported on February 26, 1906, and passed the senate May 18, 1906, after ten weeks of discussion.

May Reach Agreement
WASHINGTON, June 4.—The leaders of the House and Senate today held a conference to determine the possibility of agreement by the House on the Senate amendments to the administration railroad regulation bill, and thereby avoid the necessity of sending the bill to conference. ### WARSHIPS ENROUTE TO CHINA FROM MANY POINTS

Foreigners Advised to go Home—Massacre Feared—Boxer May be Surpassed

PEKIN, June 4.—Strong detachments of loyal Chinese troops are being rushed from Shanghai to Nanking in anticipation of an outbreak there. Reports from the interior indicate that the situation is precarious. An uprising greater than the Boxer war is imminent.

The revolt started in Hunan and is spreading rapidly to surrounding provinces. Hundreds of foreigners are fleeing to the coast where other foreigners have gathered to take the ships at a moment's notice. The foreign consuls are advising the subjects of their nations to leave China immediately.

Feeling is most bitter at Nanking, where a large exposition opens tomorrow. Hundreds of whites had planned to attend but government officials fear an attempt at massacre. Consuls say that warships almost everywhere are enroute to Chinese waters. Revolutionary agents are distributing arms and ammunition to the inflammatory propaganda.

The rebel generals Mena and Chamorro cleverly trapped Chavarrais and surrounded him. The fighting lasted three hours. One hundred were killed and four hundred wounded. Madriz forces captured William Pittman, an American and a rebel engineer. He will be court martialled.

OLD SOLDIERS MIGHT BE DISENFRANCHISED

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—A novel protest has been made by the Los Angeles Pacific Railway Company as a reason it should not be obliged to pay taxes on that portion of its road which runs through the Soldiers' Home grounds. Judge James, in deciding the company's suit against the County of Los Angeles to recover taxes already paid, may have to decide whether the soldiers at the Home are entitled to a vote in State or County affairs.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad, cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny. Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed on it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of the great practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral poisons or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Sour-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the woman's functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Recitation, "Loving Words"—Blanche Myers.

Vacation Song—Fifth Grade Girls.

Recitation, "A Little Boy's Troubles"—Ralph Smith.

Recitation, "Do You Know How Many Stars There Are?"—Anita Cox.

Piano Solo—Valeda Willard.

Recitation, "Wait"—Mildred Severance.

Recitation, Closing Address—Will Phinney.

Song, "The Coming of Spring"—Fifth Grade Pupils.

Many pleased parents and friends were present and enjoyed this splendid program. The assembly hall, in which the exercises were held, was beautifully decorated with flowers and flags.

On next Tuesday afternoon the graduating exercises of the Eighth grade will be held in the assembly hall, to which the public is invited.

The grammar school at Myford, Miss Edith Cook, principal, closed yesterday. Miss Edith Adams was the assistant teacher for the year.

TO TAKE VOTE TO DECIDE IT

San Juan Capistrano School
District Has Two Candidates for Appointment

San Juan Capistrano has been having a merry old time, and a merry old time it is.

It is all over the appointment of a school trustee. The district failed to hold an election this spring. In such cases the county superintendent of schools is authorized under the law to appoint someone to fill the vacancy caused by the ending of the term of the man whose successor has not been elected.

County School Superintendent Mitchell soon found that he was the center of a strenuous fire. There were two contending forces, one seeking to have him appoint Albert Pryor, the other to have him name W. F. Stroschein.

Mitchell decided to leave it to the voters of the district, and with that end in view he posted notices of a special election to be held in the mission school district on June 11. He said that whoever got the most votes in that election would get his appointment, he would let majority rule.

It seems that some person or persons in the district found the method of settlement unpleasant, for some of the notices of the special election have been pulled down. However, this act will not interfere with the special election, and the school superintendent has told the people of the district that he will take the majority man for appointment.

MEN OF GOOD TYPE

Riverside Press: This campaign is bringing out a better type of men for legislative candidates than ever before in the history of the state. Lee C. Gates and Leslie Hewitt are candidates for the state senate in Los Angeles county, and Judge W. A. Sloane in San Diego county—all of them men of the highest character and reputation. And now the announcement is made that E. O. Larkins of Visalia, one of the leading attorneys of the San Joaquin valley, is to make the race for the senate in that district on a reform platform. These instances illustrate the tendency to bring out strong men for both the assembly and senate; and the leaders of the Lincoln-Roosevelt movement are largely responsible for that condition. They have worked with unfailing enthusiasm to induce men of this sort to make the sacrifice necessary to undertake the campaign; and the present outlook is for a legislative body that will redeem the credit of the state in this direction. In the past we have been too much inclined to leave these legislative positions to petty politicians and the change in conditions is a refreshing and hopeful one.

Fresno Republican: If, a few years ago, a prize of $30,000 had been offered to the man who would fly from New to St. Louis, the money would have been considered safe from winning as is the standing offer of a fortune, in France, to the first man to communicate with Mars. Now, since the flight of Glenn Curtiss from Albany to New York, getting half way across the continent seems to be not much more than a routine matter. And indeed it is little more. Aviator Hamilton remarked yesterday, "It is much more spectacular to fly across country in a straight line than to circle around an exhibition field, but it is really no more difficult."

So, with proper provision for stops to obtain gasoline, and pontoons to guard against dropping into rivers and lakes, there is little danger to the experienced navigator in the air who knows how to protect himself against exceptional wind currents. The New York World need have little fear but that its $30,000 prize will soon be claimed and the chances are that there will be a number of keen competitors for the honor and the fortune.

Farewell to the Comet

Led by no hand along thy fiery path
Save the Omnipotent, from out the gulphs,
The caverns of illimitable space,
From night's remotest and unsounded seas
Whose every drop is some resplendent sun,
Thou rushest forth in mystery and awe,
O rover of the grand and solemn heavens!

What thousands turn the wondering gaze to thee
At this calm hour, where thou dost sheath thy pale,
Tremendous sword in the abyss of stars!
With quivering nerve the rapt astronomer
Poises the mighty tube and flings a rein,
An unseen curb upon thy flaming jaws
To bring thee nigh that he may read thy birth,
And trace the inscription on thy fiery brow
And map thy journey through the starry fields.
The prattling child, through the dim window pane,
Whilst twilight settles on the crimson hills,
Lifts his moist eye and wonders what thou art.
And tanned, unlettered men whose horny hands,
With honest toil, have earned the bread that makes
Their lowly homes a shrine for happiness,
Pause by the way and turn a thoughtful glance
Upon the fiery stranger. The old man
Whose eyes the years have spread a film
That flings a haze across the mid-day sun,
Turns half in vain to where thy streaming locks
Leave on their vault thy track of hairy fire.
Nay, what art thou that blazest on our eyes
So strangely and so wildly—so unlike
The heavenly host, the planets, the sweet moon,
And earth, with all her clouds and streams and groves,
That run their dazzling, everlasting round
Without a pause, a jar, a moment lost,
Or note discordant in the glorious scale?

Thou rushest down, unbidden and alone,
Upon the night from out the frosty space,
The gulphs of being, the untrodden realms
Known but to God. What couldst thou tell of them,
If power were thine to carve thy history
In words of flame along the evening vault?
What royal hieroglyphics dost thou bring,
What radiant prophecies, what omens, sounds
From the eternities, if our cold ears
Could hear, and our dull eyes interpret, them?
Where is thy birthplace, what thy errand here
Bathing thy sides in the cool waves of night,
Whilst the great hurricane of God's swift breath
Streams o'er thy brow and blows thy fiery locks
Backward in floods of pallid flame to bend
Across the headlands of the universe?
What is thy purpose in that glorious plan
Which knows no jars or discords? where the bourne
To which thou sweepest onward with a spee?
To baffles contemplation? Dost thou come
To tell us of our littleness, that we
Have lost communion with the Invisible?
To tell us that our lives are dry and poor
And ghastly with our vices? that, like thine,
Our path is wayward, wild, far, far away
From Him who is the Centre and the Sun
Of peace, joy, glory, immortality?
Is this the lesson thou wouldst downward pour
Upon the world from thy mysterious track?
A lesson that already hath been carved
In darkness, carnage, smoke, despair and grief,
On rock and flower, on every foot of earth
And man's most aching heart? Art thou a type
Of our sad world with all its multitudes
Of homeless, blind, despairing, hungry souls,
Crying for light yet cleaving to the dark,
Writhing beneath the thirst that burns their lips,
Yet turning madly from the Blessed Fount
That sparkles at their feet? O, art thou such,
Pale rover of the night, and art thou here
To tell the oft-reverberated tale
That we are smitten, banished from the songs
And flowers of life's primeval harmonies?
That we are fallen from beauty, strength and love—
That our thoughts, blind, discordant, walk no more
The bright, melodious highway of the stars,
But, like thee, broken from the Central Sun
And Fount, whose every beam and wave is life,
They wander careless, hopeless, down the void
Of night and clouds and everlasting storms?

Does the ethereal tract thou rovest look
Ground unfamiliar to thine eye, or hath
Thy flaming bulk traveled the selfsame round
In the dim ages gone, so long ago
That all the sand-grains which the moaning sea
Breathes on and tosses from his frothy lips,
Must fail to equal the stupendous lapse?
Hereafter shall the children of the earth
Behold thy quivering, vast, ill-omened lamp
Blazoning the night, or does the mystic path
Thou treadest, darkling, seek the unknown realms,
The seas of crude, unformed, chaotic worlds,
The fathomless tracts, the awful solitudes,
Whence neither chance, nor years, nor God's high will
Shall give thee to men's eyes forevermore?

Thou answerest not save with thy fiery hair
That streams and quivers up the starry dome
As if in winds that o'er thy forehead blow
From the eternities! thou sweepest on
To thy uncharted and mysterious goal—
Even while I gaze thy splendor fades away
From the cold Heavens—into the solemn depths,
Without a sound, thou sinkest and art gone.

Editor's Note—This beautiful poem was inspired by the great comet of 1858. It was written by Rev. T. Hemstead, and is reprinted from a book of poems published by him in 1859. This volume was kindly loaned to the Register by Dr. Henry E. W. Barnes of this city.

WHAT IS A REPUBLICAN?

FROM THE ALHAMBRA ADVOCATE

Those who style themselves "regulars" are dominated by corporate interests, for the benefit of the comparatively few, and assume, those composing that wing assume that their construction of the last quaternary platform is the only interpretation permissible. They assume that their perspective view of economics is the test of party loyalty. In other words, the self-styled "regulars" are infallible and he who questions this dogma is to be branded as a traitor.

On the other hand, those who refuse to be purblind to bald and glaring defects in the operative life of the administration, and who will not stultify their consciences and their self-respect, constitute the element that stands for principles looking to the benefit of the greatest number, as was laid down in the earlier propaganda of the Republican party and advocated by the immortal Lincoln and later espoused and expanded by Roosevelt.

Those of the Republican party who today adhere to the doctrine of "a government of the people, by the people, for the people," and "a square deal for all," are the stalwarts. They who stand for the development, conservation and protection of the interests of the nation, instead of the special few, are the true Republicans. They who stand for governmental regulation and control—but not management—of the great corporations; government ownership and regulation—thought not administration—of the public domain, including forests, minerals and water sources, so that they may be developed for all the people, and not to be taken and exploited for the benefit of individual ownership; and also for a protective tariff as expressed by the latest platform of the Republican party (though not as drawn by the Aldrich wing), are the real Republicans, loyal and true to the fundamental principles for which that great party stands.

A stalwart Republican is the type of that which is best in the life and in the ranks of the Republican organization. The stalwarts will not be driven or cajoled into a surrender to the "special interests" wing headed by Aldrich, Hale and Cannon. A Republican is one who contends that the man is above the dollar. To use the words of Roosevelt: "When it clearly appears that there is a real conflict between human rights and property rights, human rights must have the upper hand, for property belongs to man, and not man to property." This we hold to be the true definition of the term, "a Republican."

Our Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A remarkable statement by Representative Thomas (Dem., Ky.), in the House a few days ago, led to the immediate adoption of a resolution to wipe out a charge of desertion standing against Joseph Dodson in the War Department records.

"In 1875," said Thomas, "Dodson had served over 12 months in the regular army with a good record. He obtained a leave of absence, as he states in his affidavit, to go and see a girl of his acquaintance. He went to see the girl, and, like many young men—and for that matter, old men, too—he got drunk. He started back, but got thirsty and went out into the foothills to look for some water, and he got lost and made his way finally back to his post. As the report of the adjutant general says, he was absent a part of one day beyond his leave of absence. He was arrested as the proof shows—and the recital of this case, Mr. Speaker, is more like a romance or the account of some Russian atrocity. He was arrested, carried to a blacksmith shop and irons put around his ankles, a heavy chain was attached to them, and he was kept in that condition for three months, until the irons around his ankles had worn the flesh nearly to the bone before Dodson got the irons removed from his ankles. He was then tried by a court-martial and was sentenced to imprisonment for four years, and given a dishonorable discharge. After that the irons were put back upon his ankles and he was sent back to prison, and remained, as I remember, something over a year, and appealed the case to the War Department. The adjutant general in his report states that the punishment was unaccountably severe; that this man was absent from the post only a part of the day; and that there was lacking in his conduct that animus to show desertion. I am personally acquainted with Dodson. He had made a good soldier. There is nothing against his record. He is a good citizen, and this stain should be removed from his record. He has already had a pretty lengthy punishment for one little drunk. If other men got that severe character of punishment for one little drunk, I expect that there would be some more of them in prison."

The turpentine industry of the South, which has been threatened with total destruction, by reason of the injurious old-fashioned method of cutting and slashing the trees to get at the product, has received a boom in the new system of cup and gutter tapping, tested by the Department of Agriculture.

The producing forests have become so depleted of thrifty trees as to have caused much concern. The movement southward of the center of greatest production has been like the progress of a consuming forest fire, raising the question as to how long the staple species of virgin timber will last. The former Georgia operators, now in Florida, are producing heavily, but how long this crop will last can only be guessed at if the old methods of producing prevail.

"They are inconsistent with the permanent development of one of the South's greatest resources and the most conservative methods, such as those long urged by the Department, would seem to be the sole salvation," said the Department of Agriculture.

The Department has established, by experiments, that the cup and gutter system yields 30 per cent more product, does not weaken the trees physically and leaves them in a thrifty condition.

FINE OWNERS INSTEAD OF CATCHING THE DOGS

REDLANDS, June 3.—The city trustees today adopted a resolution instructing the marshal to pursue a new course in cases of unmuzzled dogs, by arresting the owners and imposing fines for misdemeanor, instead of catching the dogs, which has proved futile and expensive.

HAUTEVILLE HOUSE.

Victor Hugo's Home While He Was in Exile at Guernsey.

Hauteville House, in St. Peter Port, Guernsey, Victor Hugo's home while in exile, remains exactly as he left it. It is held by his descendants. Victor Hugo's character is written on the walls and ceilings of every room in the house. Each is distinctive and filled with priceless pictures, tapestries and furniture.

The dining room is "papered" with Dutch delft ware, and in a recess is a saltcellar made by a pupil of Michelangelo valued at £600. The study is a bare and inconvenient room. It commands magnificent views of Sark, Herm, Jethou, Castle Cornet and the harbor and leads into a small room used by the novelist as a rest and sleeping chamber, lined with volumes bearing the marks of his own use.

Not the least interesting of the features are, the correspondent points out, the mottoes and aphorisms written up in unexpected places. "Life is an Exile" is inscribed on the door of the dining room; on the bed prepared for Garibaldi (which was never occupied) one may read, "Nox, Mors, Lux," in the oak gallery are three chairs inscribed "Pater," "Mater," "Filius," and underneath "Filius" is written "Amatus Amat."

In the red drawing room and other splendid apartments are tables that belonged to Charles II., a bedstead of Francis I., and a fire screen worked by Mme. Pompadour, a white and gold dessert service once the property of Louis Philippe.—Sunday School Chronicle.

NORWAY WATCH BOYS.

They Sit in Tall Sentry Boxes on the Lookout For Fish.

It is common enough to see a boy watching cattle to keep them from straying, and in days not so very long gone by it was no unusual thing for a boy to be set to keep the birds off the crops. But a watch boy whose duty it is to keep a lookout for a school of fish and who sits in a sentry box set upon stilts is not such an everyday sight.

This particular kind of watch boy is Norwegian, the scene of his labors being the shores of some fiord of his native land.

His little sentry box is made of wood and perched high upon posts. Here the lad sits, gazing out across the arm of the sea, using his keen eyes for the benefit of the farmers who are depending upon him to give the alarm when a school of fish shall appear. They work contentedly enough in their fields, secure in the belief that their watch boy will let them know when it is time to reap a harvest from the sea instead of from the land.

When the signal is given they leave their work, throw their big nets over their shoulders and hurry off to their boats.

Sentry boxes similar to those employed in Norway were in use among the fishermen on the shores of the Mediterranean, and it is supposed that the vikings brought back with them from some of their piratical raids the idea that has been put in practice ever since.—Youth's Companion.

Analysis.

There was once a young man who was paying court to three different beautiful damsels. Each was fair, each was sweet, each was charming. So much of a triplicate similarity did they have that he did not know how to choose between them. So he went to a wise old man and laid his troubles before him.

"Is there a clock at each house?" asked the wise old man.

"There is."

"And what does Esmeralda say when the clock strikes 11?"

"She says the clock is slow."

"What does Eulalie say?"

"She says the clock is just right."

"And what does Evangeline say?"

"She always says the clock is fast."

"My son, there is no need for further evidence. Evangeline is the one that really loves you."—Judge.

Burglar Medicine.

"A society woman once asked me what she should do if a burglar were to get into her room and awaken her from sleep," said a former police captain. "I told her to do nothing except sit up in bed and squeal for help at the top of her lungs. That's the medicine for Mr. Burglar. Not one of the gentry in 10,000 will do aught save run like a deer when a woman begins to yell. The sure enough professional will not harm anybody unless cornered, and to shoot is the last thing he contemplates in his philosophy. An amateur loses his head and uses his gun, but a regular—never."—Baltimore American.

Sarcastic.

A pompous looking lawyer once chartered a hansom cab, and on reaching his destination he only gave his driver the shilling required by law.

The driver looked at the coin and bit his lip. Then in the most courteous manner he said: "Do step in again, sir. I could not drive ye a yard or two farther for this 'ere."—London Fun.

Last Meeting of Guild
The ladies of the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Messiah were asked by Mrs. Balderston, the president, to meet at her home yesterday for a social afternoon. The time was spent most enjoyably, the ladies felicitating each other on the phenomenal success of the days-of-the-week bazaar given last Wednesday afternoon and evening.

A Day of Picnics
No less than three churches with their Sunday schools are picnicking in Orange County Park today. These are the First Presbyterian, the United Presbyterian and Episcopal churches. Hay-wagons, automobiles, carriages and various other means of locomotion were used to convey the merry crowds to the beautiful park.

Besides the church picnics, there were two or three grades of the various city schools bound for the seaside or the mountains. In fact the early morning revealed a gala day scene, picnickers traversing the streets in all sorts of vehicles.

Helping Hand Society

The Helping Hand of the Baptist church was entertained at the pleasant home of Mrs. Clemence Morrison and her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Morrison Morris, 1502 West Third street, on Wednesday afternoon.

A fairly had made known to some of the ladies the desire of Mrs. Morris's heart, and in keeping with that desire, rags were taken and sewed, ready for weaving and then presented to Mrs. Morris, proving a very agreeable and complete surprise.

The ladies were also treated to a surprise when they were served with ice cream and cake by the hostess. The company reluctantly dispersed, after a very pleasant and profitable afternoon.

Ebel Parliamentary Section
This section met at the home of Mrs. Mills on Ninth street, on Thursday afternoon, in the last meeting of the year. The attendance was small, but mighty, and substantial results were accomplished in planning the work of the class for the next season. The section adjourned subject to the call of the president.

Success in Recital
The many Santa Ana friends of Lester Donahue will be gratified to learn of his successful piano recital last evening, given at Gamut Club Auditorium, Los Angeles. The difficult and varied program presented by him was played so skillfully as to win tributes of admiration from the large audience that heard him. He has won an acknowledged place among noteworthy musicians, and the 18-year-old pianist is pronounced an artist. Many beautiful floral pieces were sent him by his friends and admirers.

Dinner Party
The F. M. Robinsons informally and delightfully entertained several friends at a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday evening at their home on North Main street. Sweet peas and ferns were tastefully used in table decorations. The guests for whom covers were laid were Mr. and Mrs. J. Wiley Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Smalley, Miss Ida Smalley and Mrs. Roberts of Los Angeles. The latter is a sister of Mrs. Robinson.

The evening following the dinner was pleasantly spent in whist.

Tomorrow's Game
Tomorrow Long Beach will play the locals at Association Park. The fans will see two left handers work in the box. Meyers, the Long Beach southpaw is pitching fine ball and with Santa Ana's mound artist working in good shape one of the best games of the season can be expected. The locals are now tied for first place.

Honor in Wall Street.
One would hardly consider the New York Stock Exchange exactly in the light of "a communion of saints." Indeed, to judge by much that appears in the daily papers and the muck raking magazines, this might be the last place to look for the very soul and spirit of integrity. But there it is "in the midst of them." Between members of that marble mansion of trade in securities on New York's famous Broad street no paper writing passes certifying to the binding obligation of a transaction. In the very fiercest rush and maddest vortex of the wild corner a word, a nod, the merest sign, amply suffices. Whatever it may lead to—irreparable loss, ruin, bankruptcy, no matter—the deal is closed. I am not professing to be an apologist for whatever crimes may be committed in the name of honor. I simply record the fact, to be easily verified, that the dealings on that exchange are "on honor." The Corinthian fairness of its pillars and entablature front is not shamed by the constant and consistent uprightness of the traffic within.—Christian Register.

A Tragedy in Writing.
Illegible handwriting, which has given rise to so many comedies, led to a tragedy in the case of Bacher, a musical enthusiast of the last century who devoted several years to the composition of a history of Viennese music. His task finished, he submitted the manuscript to the Austrian imperial academy, which he had been led to believe would defray the cost of its publication. After three months his manuscript was returned. Despite their best efforts the members had been unable to decipher it. Bacher then endeavored to have his work copied, but every professional copyist who undertook the task had to confess himself baffled. He thereupon attempted dictating the work, only to find that even he could not decipher it, and, heartbroken at the discovery that his years of toil had proved fruitless, he attempted suicide and finished his days in a lunatic asylum.

Her Cab.
Mary Ann of Lancaster Gate, basement, was having a week off and had arrived back at her little native village in all her metropolitan paint and feathers.

It was a very little native village, and Mary Ann, after her many months' service in town, didn't think so very much of it. Even James, the station porter and her old sweetheart, seemed hopelessly insignificant, and instead of staggering him with the kiss that he expected she looked him up and down, comparing him with a certain gentleman whose acquaintance she had recently made and who wore plush breeches and silk stockings.

"Porter," she said grandly, "do you know if there is a cab here to convey me and my luggage home?"
"Well, I don't know about a cab," responded the staggered yokel, "but there's yer mother outside wif a barer!"—London Scraps.

A Strong Prescription.
Menelik, emperor of Abyssinia, often dabbled in medicine. Some years ago Mme. Stevenin, the wife of a prominent member of the French colony at Addis Abeba, was laid up with fever. Menelik inquired what treatment she was undergoing and expressed disapproval when he learned that she was being dosed with quinine. The following day a messenger called with a large pot of very rancid butter, accompanied by a letter from one of the emperor's secretaries stating that his royal master hoped that madame would take three glasses daily of the butter sent, which had been stored for two years and would be found an infallible remedy. The present was gratefully acknowledged and promptly buried, and when madame recovered Menelik took to himself the credit of her cure.

Effects of Drugs.
Persons employed in India rubber factories sometimes inhale bisulphide of carbon and suffer from frightful dreams of being murdered or of falling over precipices. Opium stimulates imagination; alcohol in excess excites dread and suspicion; hashish, from which the word assassin was derived, produces homicidal mania. These drugs have a distinct effect upon the moral sense. Sometimes, as from alcohol, a coarse and stupid brutality is stimulated, or, as from morphia, a gloomy and morose temper, or, as from cocaine, while the manner remains gentle, the victim develops thieving and lying habits.

Blind Justice.
We meet our philosophical friend and observe that he is smiling contentedly. "What has gone wrong now?" we ask.

"Nothing has gone wrong," he explains. "Something went right. Spriggins owed Hennett $10,000 and put his property in his wife's name so that Hennett couldn't collect."
"But that isn't anything unusual."
"And last night Mrs. Spriggins eloped with Hennett!"—Life.

MAN VINCATED BRINGS SUIT FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

Louis Schneiderman of Fullerton, who was arrested and taken to San Antonio, Tex., charged with being a forger, has employed Attorneys Rogers and Behm of Los Angeles to bring suit for $100,000 against the agencies and officers that caused his arrest. The complaint was to be filed in Los Angeles today. The defendants are William J. Burns, who gained world-wide reputation in the San Francisco graft prosecutions, William P. Sheridan and E. R. Mills, connected with the Burns & Sheridan National Detective Agency, American Bankers' Association, City Marshal Stone of Fullerton, and his two bondsmen, C. E. Ruddock and D. S. Linebarger.

Schneiderman, a retired missionary among Africans, was taken from his abiding shop at Fullerton, where he had been located about three weeks with his family. Charged with San Antonio forgeries, he was held in the county jail here for a week. He was taken to Texas, spending a night in the Los Angeles jail en route.

The complaint attacks Detective Burns, alleging his San Francisco record proved him to be unreliable. The Bankers' Association is charged with having employed him when it knew him to be "incompetent and untrustworthy."

The complaint alleges that when Detective Mills and City Marshal Stone of Fullerton arrested Schneiderman at Fullerton on May 17, Mills searched his trunk. Schneiderman declares he was thrown into the San Antonio jail, and confined in a dirty, filthy, unsanitary, unhealthy cell, filled with sewer gas and horrible stenches from an open sewer, and infested with a multitude of loathsome bugs and vermin. And here he was kept one night in solitary confinement, save for the presence of throngs and packs of rats, which fought, ran about, bit each other, squealed and snarled during the night, and ran over the person of Schneiderman and over the bed, compelling the prisoner to remain entirely without sleep until morning, when the rats, according to their nature, retired to the sewers from whence they came.

He says that when taken before Ernest L. Brown and F. H. Prescott, assistant cashier and paying teller, respectively, of the Alamo National Bank, and Frank Harris, teller of the State Bank & Trust Company, San Antonio, for the purpose of identification in connection with the uttering of forged checks, they instantly declared that he was not the guilty person. Then, he says, he was released with but $2 in his pockets and thousands of miles from home.

Judgment against all the defendants for $100,000 is asked, except against the city marshal's bondsmen, who are alleged to be liable for $5000, the amount of the bond.

WELL DESERVED

The Praise That Comes From
Thankful Santa Ana People

One kidney remedy never fails. Santa Ana people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Santa Ana testimony proves it always reliable. Mrs. L. A. Steele, 517 West First street, Santa Ana, Cal., says: "I had kidney trouble all my life, and during the past four years my condition has been especially bad. Inflammation of the bladder caused me intense suffering. The kidney secretions were unnatural and too frequent in passage and caused me much distress when being voided. My back was weak, lame and painful and if I sat down for any length of time, it was difficult for me to get up. The least cold I caught aggravated my trouble and I was subject to headaches, dizzy spells and a tired, languid feeling. Nothing I took seemed to help me and I was finally led to try Doan's Kidney Pills by reading accounts of their good work in similar cases. As soon as I began taking this remedy, I noticed a change for the better, and by the time I had used three boxes, my health was greatly improved. My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills gives me much confidence in them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE ORANGE BELT BOOST

Orange County "Starts Something" by Her Exhibit
Pledges

Funds Provided by the Boards
of Supervisors Will be Well
Utilized by the Various Communities for Exploitation
Purposes at Elks' Reunion

Riverside Press: Matters are shaping themselves most satisfactorily for the exhibit of products characteristic of the orange belt to be displayed at Detroit during the forthcoming reunion of the Elks. This is to be gathered from an interview with Secretary May of the Chamber of Commerce, who has been selected by the representatives of the "best people" in four Southern California counties to extend to the communities within their borders the invitation of the boards of supervisors relative to contributions of exhibit material. After the products have been installed at Detroit, Mr. May will have charge of the information desk, which will be the center of the distribution of literature and general information pertaining to California's orange belt.

Mr. May returned last evening from a two days' tour of Orange county, in pursuance of his commission to outline the project in which the several counties have joined, and to present the opportunity offered by the boards of supervisors for representation of the various communities in the general exhibit. The secretary will be off again in a few days to visit districts adjacent to San Bernardino, Redlands and Pomona. He also contemplates a run to Coachella valley in quest of characteristically early grapes and melons.

Mr. May states that to date Orange county maintains a strong lead in the matter of pledges for the exhibit, a committee of two having secured the promise of sixty boxes of the finest Valencia oranges, in a canvass lasting but one hour. He expressed the hope that all exhibit material provided will be of such a nature that it may be distributed to interested callers during the latter part of the convention week.

Southern California has exhibited effectively in cities of various Eastern districts, notably Chicago, Buffalo, Jamestown, Atlantic City and St. Louis. Detroit is the commercial center of a thickly settled territory in which no Southern California demonstration has ever been made. The coming reunion of the Elks is to be, so far as could be learned, the largest convention gathering of any kind to be held in the East this summer.

An exhibit in an Eastern convention is conceded to be worth while at any time, but the temptation to show at Detroit is particularly strong for the reason that 200 to 300 enthusiastic Southern Californians will be in the city all through reunion week calling attention wherever they may be to the exhibit from this section.

Recognizing these facts, the supervisors of Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties jointly provided a sum sufficient to transport and install any exhibit material which any of the towns in the four counties may choose to send. Opportunity is thus afforded every producing district in the orange belt to secure any amount of publicity desired simply by providing the exhibit materials. There will be no outlay whatever required for transportation or for exhibit space.

Secretary Frank Wiggins of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, offers the services of Chas. L. Wilcox, probably the cleverest installation expert in the world today. To him has been intrusted the grouping of the California exhibits in every exposition of recent years.

Local exhibits will be shipped to Colton about June 20 and there loaded into two refrigerator cars and thence shipped to Detroit. Mr. Wilcox and Mr. May will go East in a few days in advance of the delegates in order that all arrangements may be absolutely complete when the curtain shall rise on the opening day.

ORANGE SHIPMENTS FROM ORANGE IN MAY

Orange News: The month of May was a normal period for the orange business in this vicinity. The shipping consisted chiefly of sweets with a few Valencias and St. Michaels and the market held up very well through the most of the month, though toward the latter part it declined a little. The shippers with good eastern connections found a ready sale for their Valencias at $3.00 a crate, while others sold at $2.75 and less. Sweets were quoted at all the way from $1.00 to $1.50 and lemons brought the growers Valencias at $1.75 for the standards and $2.50 for the fancy grades. Six cars of oranges, consisting of Valencias and St. Michaels were shipped during the month from the Hewes packing house. The Alland Packing Company in McPherson sent out seven carloads of sweets, with lemons in small lots amounting to about a carload. The Gilman packing house reported shipments of eleven cars of Sweets and one car of lemons, and the Spencer Company shipped ten cars of sweets and there of Valencias. From the Harper packing house were sent fifteen carloads of sweets and two of Valencias, and the Santiago Fruit Growers' Association disposed of thirty-two cars of sweets and one car of lemons. The outlook for the present month is considered very favorable by local shippers.

FOUND GUILTY OF STEALING CUSHION

Lorenzo Berata, a Spaniard, was sentenced yesterday for petty larceny. Berata was charged with stealing a cushion from G. F. Andrist's buggy last Tuesday night. Officer Boynton found the missing article in Berata's cart. Berata refused to be sentenced until today, but changed his mind. He was fined $10 which he paid. The officers say they have had many complaints of articles stolen from buggies.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET
Cantaloupe shipments were a little heavy yesterday morning and a decline of 25 cents per crate was made by the wholesale houses. The melons were good and solid and the demand was rather brisk. They will probably be coming in in still larger quantities next week, and by next Thursday or Friday should be considerably cheaper. Sweetwater grapes were a little more in evidence on the street and sold at a reduction of half a dollar from previous quotations.

The market on green beans has gone all to pieces and they could be bought at almost any price. A few sold as high as 3 cents a pound, but most of the stock was disposed of at from 1 to 1 1/2 cents, and even at that they did not create any demand to speak of.

The quality of asparagus on the market yesterday was very poor and consequently it did not move very fast. Apricot prices remained unchanged, and all that arrived were in demand. Nearly all were sold on the trains. The cherry market was unchanged both in prices and movement.

Arrivals of eggs were 364 cases. The market was firm, the most demand being for local case counts. An effort was made to sell a quantity at a cent above quotations, but no one was willing to pay that much.

The butter market was rather slow, and there was little trading. Cooking butter was offered at 25 cents, but was not taken at that price. Receipts were 24,345 pounds.

Cheese arrivals were 4641 pounds. Northern fresh, eastern twins, longhorns and daisy and limberger were all offered at a small margin under quotations, but the only calves were for longhorns, daisy and limberger.

Potatoes continued weak with prices the same. Longhorns were placed on the market at $1, but were not much in demand. Receipts in spuds were 416 sacks.

Onion arrivals were 21 sacks, and beans 12 sacks. Both of the markets were quiet and unchanged.

There was but little changes in the berry market. Strawberries were a little stronger and moved in fairly good shape. Sweet corn was a little more in evidence and sold well at $1.15 per lug box of about four dozen ears.

All varieties of fish were scarce early in the morning, but late shipments came in and everyone was supplied.

WILL DECIDE MONDAY WHETHER OR NOT TO SECURE OPINION

The city trustees expect to decide next Monday night whether or not to employ attorneys Dillon, Thomson & Gray of New York, to pass upon the legality of the act of the last legislature providing for building sewers by districts. The price named by the attorneys is $250.

The matter was discussed at the meeting of the trustees last night, but no final action was taken. The trustees feel that the law is a good one in its general provisions, though it may be defective in minor points.

It has been proposed that the city spend the $250 and secure an opinion from the bond lawyers upon which a new law can be built, to be submitted to the next convention of the League of California Municipalities, and taken by the league's judiciary committee to the legislature for passage.

The trustees believe the matter of a new outfall and the sewerage of the districts not now sewered is the most important problem this city now has to deal with.

"DUTCH" IS SIGNED WITH WASHINGTON

Los Angeles Express: The Southern California Trolley League has graduated its first man into the "big bush."

"Dutch" Hendrick, the Santa Ana twirler, is the first contribution of the baby league of organized baseball. Hendrick goes to the Washington Americans.

When out here last winter, Jimmy McAleer carefully looked Hendricks over and later decided to buy him outright rather than wait for the drafting season.

Hendricks is a "big, husky fellow with about everything that goes to make a good twirler."

GREECE WILL REPEL THREATENED INVASION

ATHENS, June 4.—The Greek government has summoned ten thousand reserves fearing that Turkey is contemplating the invasion of Thessaly and Crete. The action of the movement of the troops is not explained by

POPE PIUS' TRIBUTE TO THEODORE ROOSEVELT

ROME, June 4.—Pope Pius the Tenth today paid Colonel Roosevelt a compliment. He received thirty officers and sailors of the cruiser "New York." He blessed them and said he hoped they would always be influenced and inspired by the "humanitarian sentiments of that great pacificator, Theodore Roosevelt."

RETURNS TO PRISON FOR LOVE OF WOMAN

PASADENA, June 4.—Love for a woman who influenced him to lead a better life caused Allen N. Smith, wanted at St. Cloud, Minn., to surrender and confess his identity, according to the local police. Officers arrived here today to take him to Minnesota.

Smith, according to the officers, was sentenced to the penitentiary on a larceny charge. He sawed through the bars and escaped, and came to California. While working at Redding, Cal., he fell in love with a woman who persuaded him to surrender. The police refuse to divulge her name. Smith says he will return to California, when his term expires, and marry her.

Glassware and Hardware.

On occasions of impending danger people sometimes do what seems to them most absurd at other moments. When the steamship America, which carried one of the Ziegler exploring expeditions to Franz Josef Land in 1903, was being crushed by ice the following winter it became necessary to abandon the ship in haste. Orders were given to unload upon the ice everything that would be of use in the long winter yet before the men. The work must be done with dispatch.

While the crew was passing the bags over the side of the ship the cook, who was of an excitable nature, suddenly appeared at the rail with a large bag, which he heaved over with all his strength. It struck the ice below with a resounding crash, causing one of the sailors to exclaim:

"Hello, cook, what was that?"

"Oh, that is all right," he answered.

"It was lamp chimneys and flatirons." But it was hardly all right, for during the winter they were obliged to cut the bottoms out of pickle bottles and use them in place of chimneys that had been broken.

Doubtless True.

A teacher in a Birmingham school was endeavoring to explain the term "booking" as applied to our railway system, says London Tit-Bits.

"Now," he was saying, "can any of you tell me the name of the office at which railway tickets are sold?"

"The booking office," replied one of the lads.

"Right," responded the teacher.

At this moment his eye fell on a small boy at the end of the class who was evidently paying very little attention to what was said.

"Did you hear that, Spry?" he demanded.

"Wot, sir?" asked that youth innocently.

"As I thought, you were not listening. We will suppose your father decided to have a day's holiday and visit the seaside. What would he have to do before he could take his seat in the train?"

Without a moment's thought the youngster electrified his teacher by replying:

"Paw'n his tools!"

Odd French English.

A correspondent has been studying English pronunciation in a French dictionary (Pierre Larousse, 1890) and picks out a few examples to show how much effort is necessary for a Frenchman to acquire a true articulation of English. They are all taken from a surprisingly long list of English phrases current in France. "Broken down" (as applied to a race horse) is "bro-k'n-daoun." "Dead heat" is rendered as "did-hith," which is ingenious, but hardly correct. "At-half" is not a bad attempt for "high life," although the aspirate is missing. "Self government" looks an even more imposing political ideal as "self ghevernemunt," and the word "shocking" is quite applicable when rendered "shok-inn-que." The opening words of Hamlet's famous soliloquy have a decidedly foreign look. "Tou bi or nott tou bi, that is thil kouness-tcheunn."—Manchester Guardian.

Alluring Surroundings.

A young man who had just gone to Philadelphia to take employment in a dress house was casting about for a stable room for himself in Germantown when he chanced upon one in a fine house overlooking a cemetery.

He was a little doubtful about the terms and more than doubtful about the cemetery.

"Your rate is pretty high," he murmured hesitatingly to the landlady.

"But consider the cheerful view, sir," ventured the mistress of the house.

"Cheerful view?" exclaimed that applicant for lodgings. "Is that what you call a view that embraces a graveyard?"

"Why, certainly," was the response. "Just think how comfortin' and cheerin' it will be when you look out of your window and think you're not there!"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Arsenic.

Arsenic is mined in Japan, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Germany, England and, within a limited area, in the United States. Its uses are many. As a poison it has been known from very early times. The peasant women of Austria consume large quantities of it, having faith in its virtues as a beautifier, and the men of the same region are addicted to its use in the mistaken belief that it increases their bodily strength and endurance.

Noblesse Oblige.

"What are you staring at, Nellie?" "Oh, please, ma'am, with your hair like that and your diamonds you look so like Lady Plantagenet Gingham that I was own maid to! Are you any relation, ma'am?"

"No—at least no near relation. But you can have that pink silk waist of mine, Nellie!"—Life.

An Effort to Console.

"Yes," said Mrs. Flummert, "my ancestors were among the country's first settlers."

"Well," answered Mrs. Cumrox consolingly, "the social and educational facilities in those days must have been rather crude, but I don't believe in heredity."—Washington Star.

Foolish Question.

"Some one stole every blessed stocking off our line."

"What are blessed stockings?" "Those which are not darned, of course."—Exchange.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

The Profitable Hog.

In my judgment, the large type Poland-China is the profitable hog of today, writes an Iowa hog raiser in the American Agriculturist. When I say large hogs I mean boars that will weigh 750 to 850 pounds at maturity and sows that will weigh 600 to 750 pounds at maturity fat. This size hog can be produced and yet have quality, be a quick grower and easy feeder. We must keep in mind individuality as well as size, broad, nicely arched back, well sprung ribs, long, deep, full hams, long, deep sides, strong, heavy bone and short pasterns. The head should be characteristic of sex. The boar's head should be broad and masculine, this being an indication of a strong, vigorous animal. The sow's head should be smooth and feminine, which indicates a quiet, motherly disposition. A short, smooth coat shows quality, and a hog with that kind of coat will respond quickly to feed, while a warty, rough coated hog is generally a slow grower and a hard feeder. In speaking of the large type I do not mean the extremely large, ill shaped hog which has neither conformation nor quality. Any practical hog man knows that we must have a hog that will fatten in his pig form to be a profitable one. The big, long, coarse hogs are not profitable.

Henroost Disinfectant.

A good disinfectant for painting henroosts for lice and mites is made as follows: Shave one ten cent cake of laundry soap into one pint of soft water. Heat or allow to stand until a soap paste is formed. Stir in one pound of commercial cresol and heat or allow to stand until the soap paste is dissolved. Stir in one gallon of kerosene. Cresol is a coal tar product and may be obtained from the drugist at about 30 cents per pound. Care should be taken not to get any of it upon the hands or face, as it will cause intense smarting. For use as a lice paint apply undiluted.

Some poultry raisers have rid their fowls of lice by dipping the birds in a diluted stock dip. This is, however, probably no more satisfactory than a thorough dusting and is much harder upon the fowls. If it is deemed advisable to dip the fowls, the cresol formula given above, diluted with fifty parts of water, makes a good solution. Dipping should be done in the morning of a bright, warm, sunny day in order that the birds may become thoroughly dry before night.—Home-Steak.

Hog Wisdom.

For winter feeding clover needs cutting and steaming. Fed with grain it makes a good bulky food and helps to keep the hogs in good growing condition.

If the pigs show any signs of being "off feed" give whole or crushed oats for a day or two.

Many pigs suffer from the effects of worms in the intestines and stomach. Feed night almost as with a wormy pig. Turpentine is a good remedy for worms and can be fed in sloppy feed at the rate of a teaspoonful to a fifty pound pig.

Do not feed the pigs for about twenty-four hours and then give the dose to a few at a time or in small lots, that none may get an overdose.

If the pigs do not thrive on good care and generous feed, worms are very often found to furnish the reason. Such cases should not be neglected.

The Aeration of Soil.

Experiments have shown that a cubic foot of soil from drained land is much lighter than the same amount of soil from undrained land after both have been thoroughly dried out. This means, therefore, that a drained soil contains more pore space, and porosity is desirable because it means the admission of air in between the soil particles. Where the water is not removed from a compact soil from below its only outlet is through the medium of evaporation, and this has two undesirable effects. In the first place evaporation cools the soil, while in the second place the upward movement of water tends to exclude the air, and, of course, in the absence of air the roots suffocate just as animals suffocate when the supply of oxygen is insufficient.

Variety For the Horse.

A horse that does not sweat is not healthy, but of course it may perspire too easily. A thick coat of hair will often prove to be the only reason for this, although a contempered habit is sometimes also partly at fault, causing the horse to feel depressed where he would show ambition if in good physical order. A steady diet of oats and hay is not enough; he should have a warm bran mash once a week, or a good feed of potatoes or apples occasionally, or some linseed oil or oilmeal.

The Care of Calves.

When calves crave wood or other unnatural substances it is an indication of an excessive acid condition of the digestive organs. They need an anti-acid, the same as when cows eat bones to neutralize an acid condition. Give them a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in milk twice daily.—Farm Journal.

Grain For the Colt.

A fair allowance of grain for the colt, measured in oats, is as follows: Up to one year of age, two to three pounds; one to two years of age, four to five pounds; two to three years of age, seven to eight pounds.—American Agriculturist.

SAVED BY THE KING.

An Incident in the Career of Holbein, the Painter.

There happened an affair in England which might have been fatal to Holbein if the king had not protected him. On the report of his character a nobleman of the first quality wanted one day to see him when he was drawing a figure after the life. Holbein in answer begged his lordship to defer the honor of his visit to another day, which the nobleman took for an affront. He broke open the door and very rudely went upstairs. Holbein, hearing the noise, left his chamber and, meeting the lord at his door, fell into a violent passion and pushed him backward from the top of the stairs to the bottom.

Considering, however, immediately what he had done, he escaped from the tumult he had raised and made the best of his way to the king. The nobleman, much hurt, though not so much as he pretended, was there soon after him, and upon opening his grievance the king ordered Holbein to be pardoned for his offense. But this only irritated the nobleman the more, who would not be satisfied with less than his life, upon which the king sternly replied:

"My lord, you have not now to do with Holbein, but with me. Whatever punishment you may contrive by way of revenge against him shall assuredly be inflicted upon yourself. Remember, please, my lord, that I can whenever I please make seven lords of seven plowmen, but I cannot make one Holbein even of seven lords."—Life of Holbein.

WIDTH OF A RIVER.

A Way to Measure It Without the Use of Instruments.

It is necessary to make use only of the eyes and the brim of a hat to measure the width of any ordinary stream or even of a good sized river, and here is the way to do it:

Select a part of the river bank where the grounds run back level behind you and, standing at the water's edge, fix your eyes on the opposite bank. Now move your hat down over your brow until the edge of the brim is exactly on a line with the water line on the other side. This will give you a visual angle that may be used on any level surface, and if, as has been suggested, the ground on your side of the river be flat you may "lay off" a corresponding distance on it. To do this you have only to hold your head perfectly steady, after getting the angle with your hat brim, supporting your chin with your hand if necessary and turn slowly around until your back is toward the river. Now, take careful note of where your hat brim cuts the level surface of the ground as you look over the latter, and from where you stand to that point will be the width of the river, a distance that may readily be measured by stepping.

If you are careful in all these details you can come within a few feet of the river's width.

Short and Sweet.

Perhaps one of the shortest courtships was that of an eminent jurist. He was on his way to hold court in a town when he met a young woman returning from market.

"How deep is the creek and what did you get for your butter?" asked the judge.

"Up to the knee and ninepence," was the answer as the girl walked on.

The judge pondered over the sensible brevity of the reply, turned his horse, rode back and overtook her.

"I liked your answer just now," he said, "and I like you. I think you would make a good wife. Will you marry me?"

"She looked him over and said 'Yes.'"

"Then get up behind me, and we will ride to town and be married."

She did get up behind, and they rode to the courthouse and were made one. It is recorded that, brief though the courtship had been, the marriage proved a pre-eminently happy one.

Disguised Hands Always Bad.

"Here is a truth," says a handwriting expert, "that is as widespread as the ether: A disguised hand always tries to be poorer than the real hand. That axiom is a great help to us experts. For instance, when a letter done in a disguised hand is brought to us we always know that the writer of the letter is in a higher station than the hand would lead us to infer; hence in our detective work we are able to save much valuable time by eliminating all persons socially below the appearance of the letter and concentrating our attention on those only who are above it."

Embarrassing.

"Paw, I want to know what you think the fourth dimension is."

"It's a figure of speech, Tommy, employed to express the idea of the size to which a man feels himself shrinking when the pastor of his church happens to catch him in the act of making a quick sidestep into a saloon."—Chicago Tribune.

A Double Break.

Wife—I saw Mr. Chancer this afternoon, and he looks very bad. What's the matter with him—do you know? Hubby—Compound fracture. Wife—What sort of compound fracture? Hubby—He's broke, and Miss Doughbag, discovering that fact, broke her engagement.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

He Told Her.

"What is it, do you suppose, that keeps the moon in place and prevents it from falling?" asked Araminta.

"I think it must be the beams," replied Charlie softly.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

A Story They Tell on Caruso.

They are telling a story in Paris of an experience of Caruso at the New York postoffice that Postmaster Morgan possibly may not have heard, says the Dramatic Mirror. As the story goes, the tenor went to the postoffice, accompanied by a friend, to cash a large money order. The official refused to hand over the packet to him. Caruso vainly exhibited envelopes, checks and photographs; the postal employee would not be convinced. "Come again tomorrow," he said coolly. "But I am leaving this country tonight!" exclaimed Caruso. "I must have my money now!" The postal official suddenly appeared to have been struck by a bright idea. "You claim to be Caruso, do you? Well, then, you can easily prove it. Sing us something!" Taken aback at the request, Signor Caruso hesitated. But the postal official was insistent and had invited his colleagues to act as judges. So the famous singer gave in his most enchanting tones the romance from the third act of "La Tosca." "Bravo! Bravissimo!" exclaimed the officials at the concluding notes. "And now," added the letter clerk, "here is your packet. We knew who you were all the time, only, as you charge the poor public such impossible prices for hearing you, we thought we would hear you free of charge. Kindly sign the receipt book and accept our sincere thanks."

Actors as Floorwalkers.

"One class of persons with whom actors out of a job stand high are the managers of department stores," said a theatrical agent. "They covet them for floorwalkers. If men hanging around here looking for work would take that kind of job not many of them would need to be idle. Managers in city shops offer them places, and country storekeepers write and telegraph for them. Actors make ideal floorwalkers. They are graceful; they are suave; they know how to please women. But it is as much as a man's life is worth to mention such a job to the average actor. His pride is a precious possession, and he would rather go hungry than work in a store in New York. Some of those who go broke on the road sometimes accept places as floorwalkers in southern and western towns for a few weeks, but the manager who can induce an actor to turn floorwalker in New York is smart enough to be elected president."—New York Sun.

Realistic Scenes.

It was at a performance of "Sherlock Holmes" that a woman in the audience, when Professor Moriarty snatches the detective's unloaded pistol as he turns his back, arose and shrieked, "Look out!" Another woman was so absorbed in "The Music Master" as to cry out a warning that the property coiffeur was boiling over. Belasco's rainstorm in "Kitty Belairs" at the fall of the last curtain was so realistic that folk used to feel around for their umbrellas as they prepared to go. Up in a small Pennsylvania town "The Dollar Mark" played, wherein a dispute arises as to the purchase of a mine, which was the subject of negotiations earlier in the play, and some one got up and took the hero's end of the argument with a vociferous "You lie!" to the villain.

Physical Defects Make Delinquents.

The physician plays an important part nowadays in determining what shall be done with boys and girls brought before juvenile courts. Judge Baker of Boston, writing in the Survey, says that after the probation officer reports to the judge about the boy's family and environment the boy himself is carefully looked over for indications of feeble mindedness, poor eyesight, deafness, adenoids, etc. If there is any reason to believe that the child is feeble minded he is taken to a specialist, and if there are indications of physical defects he is handed over to a dispensary. The whole method of dealing with delinquent children has turned from the idea of punishment to the scientific method of prevention.

How Brothers Met After Twenty Years.

"I won't charge you for that shave, pal, because you're my long lost brother."

Thereupon Thomas Rich, barber, 1204 West Taylor street, wiped remaining flecks of lather from a patron's face, stood him up and said:

"How are you, Ernest?"

"I'm pretty good, Tom. How are you?"

Then they shook hands and went home to supper.

"As soon as I had him shaved I found a scar on his face I put there myself when we were playing Indians twenty years ago," Rich said. "We were separated when boys and had lost each other for twenty years."—Chicago Tribune.

A Good Suggestion For Clubmen.

"Why, I declare," exclaims the trusting wife, "I won't have to buy any new dresses or hats at all this spring!"

"You won't?" asks the crafty husband. "Surely you will need something."

"Not a thing. I've been looking through this month's fashion magazine that you brought home for me, and I find that there isn't the slightest change in style from last spring."

And the crafty husband, inwardly gloating over the success of his scheme to paste a this year's cover on a last year's magazine, leans back in his chair and smokes and smokes and smokes.—Judge's Library.

A RARE COIN.

It Is Called a "Mistake" and Is Very Seldom Seen.

"See this penny I got today at the postoffice," said the cashier. "There aren't five other pennies like it in the United States."

He handed out a cent piece with the die impression half off the face of the coin and with a big half moon of blank metal showing along one side.

"They call it a mistake," he continued. "Perhaps once in 10,000,000 times the two little notched fingers on the minting machines that grip the blank disk and draw it forward to the die fall to spring away. In this case the left hand finger stuck and pushed the coin halfway over the die. That is how the impression is only half on the disk."

"You can see the raised edge on the blank portion of the metal," the cashier went on as he took up his pen. "It isn't everybody knows that each coin goes under the dies twice. The first time it is struck with a blank, dome shaped set of dies to put an edge on the disk. Then it gets the regular die with the familiar head on it."

"What's it worth? Oh, I'll say probably $25 or so. I see it's been in circulation for nine years. It's a wonder some coin collector hasn't nabbed it. I'm going to keep it as a rarity."—New York Times.

SENSE OF HEARING.

Sound Waves and the Way They Act Upon the Ears.

The detection of the direction of a sound by the sense of hearing is, like the rapid focusing of the eye on objects at different distances, one of those instinctive operations which are continually done without any conscious method.

Sound waves traverse the air as ripples stir the water, and the ear by experience acquires some slight power of detecting the direction in one case, as the eye does with far greater accuracy in the other. Usually we unconsciously receive assistance from other senses as well. Often we fail to locate at once some hidden source of sound, such as a singing bird, and then our instinctive ingenuity displays itself.

The intensity of sound is, of course, by no means so great behind a screen as in front of it, and every one carries with him the screen of his own head, which may prevent a particular sound from being heard so well by one ear as by the other. If, then, the head is turned until this inequality disappears and both ears hear equally well we know that we must be directly facing or turned from the source of sound, and our previous rough idea of its whereabouts generally prompts us to face it.

Wind and Temper.

There is a closer connection between wind and temper than at first sight appears. A coldish wind has a bracing effect and, on the whole, is beneficial. In countries where hot winds occur periodically, on the other hand, these are regarded as a nuisance. If not a curse. Every one almost gets cross, weary and done up and has a headache daily. In Egypt the season when crimes are commonest is when the hot khamseen blows. Nearly always during a severe sirocco the Arabs in Algeria were restless, if they did not attempt an actual rising. The solano, which now and then rushes across the Mediterranean in fiery blasts from Africa, upsets every one in Spain and is the worst wind in that country. And even in the Pearl of the Antilles the fierce hot wind is such a pest that it is recorded of a family living in Havana that they made it a rule in the household to preserve absolute silence until the wind disappeared. It was the only plan they could think of to avoid family quarrels.

Profane History.

"Pop,"

"Well, what is it now? If it's foolish question No. 9,697 I'll spank you and put you to bed."

"No, pop; I just want to know what is profane history."

"Profane history, eh? Well—it's just a term to distinguish it from sacred history."

"But why is it called profane, pop?"

"How the—that is, how do I know! I suppose it—say, you know when little George Washington cut down his father's pet cherry tree?"

"Yes, pop."

"Well, what little George's father said to little George is profane history. I should think you could get your lessons without bothering me with your fool questions."—New York Times.

Encouraging.

A Philadelphia clergyman tells of an incident in connection with his first visit to a town in Pennsylvania, where he expected to be called as pastor.

While tramping along a dusty road he was so fortunate as to encounter a man in a wagon who gave him a lift. During the conversation that ensued between the two the divine chanced to ask:

"Do the folks hereabout enjoy religion?"

"I don't know exactly," replied his companion, "but I s'pose that them that has it enjoys it."

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Household Wisdom.

To keep kitchen tables white scrub them well with cold water, soap and a little silver sand. Do not use hot water on tables, as it turns them yellow.

Stewed figs or prunes will be found much richer if the fruit is soaked for several hours before stewing. They should be stewed in the same water in which soaked.

Be careful where you place your dressing tables and mirrors. Sunlight will destroy the finest bevel French plate, and it is impossible to restore the backing without considerable expense. Dampness will destroy it in the same manner.

Baked Hash of Rice and Beef.

Take one cupful of cooked beef, one cupful of cooked rice, one cupful of milk, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper. Chop the meat, but not too fine. Put the milk on the fire and when hot add all the other ingredients except the egg. Stir for one minute, remove from the fire and add the egg, well beaten. Turn the hash into a baking dish and bake twenty minutes till very brown. Serve in the same dish.

Frying Lore.

To prepare breadcrumbs quickly dry bread in the oven after crusts have been removed, then run through the meat chopper, sift and put away in glass jars. The reason many fried things have a flat taste, though the mixture may be highly seasoned, is that the seasoning of the breadcrumbs has been neglected. Always mix the crumbs with salt, pepper and, if desired, a drop or two of onion juice before molding.

Strawberry Coupe.

Fill sherbet glasses with vanilla ice cream to within a fourth of the distance from the top. Then cover the cream with a spoonful of strawberry preserve and one or two of whipped cream. The coupe may be prepared at the table by the housewife herself, the vanilla cream being placed before her on a small platter with the whipped cream and the preserve in two glass bowls beside it.

Improved Refrigerator.

An improved kind of refrigerator invented by a Georgia man is shown herewith. In place of the row of shelves with which the ordinary refrigerator is equipped, this new ice chest has a series of drawers, which swing in and out and which make the articles kept within much easier of access. The ice compartment is at the top, as in most other types, and alongside it in one corner is a row of shelves which lift up and on which may be kept those things which should be close to the ice. The lower part of the refrigerator is equipped with drawers, which swing in and out on a hinge at one side. They are rounded at one end and come out only a certain distance. That part of the bottom of the drawer which extends outside when the latter is moved to the limit of its outward range is solid, the other segment being perforated to permit the cold air to pass through more readily.

Glass Cleaning Hint.

Place pulverized pumice stone between the layers of a folded piece of soft muslin and stitch around the edge to keep the powder from spilling. Wipe lamp chimneys or windows with this dry cloth, and they will become clean and sparkling almost instantly. Enough powder will remain in the cloth to use several times.

A Laundry Hint.

Few people know how to hang sheets properly upon the line. Shake them well while still wet and hang them with the hems together and the hem edge pinned to the line. This prevents whipping the corners and lessens the wear and tear, while the sheet will need less pulling into shape for the ironing.

Tomorrow she'll be back again, Mother will, and dad.

When they see her face again The mirrors will be glad. —Woman's Home Companion.
